New Associate Partner Named at Lawley Benefits Group

Buffalo, NY March 10th, 2014 – Lawley Benefits Group, a large regional employee benefits broker and consulting firm has named John Cureo Associate Partner. Cureo began his career in the benefits and insurance industry in 1998 and joined Lawley in 2003. He focuses his practice on creating health insurance consortiums for the not-for-profit and manufacturing industries, working closely with employers to understand their businesses, resulting in cost-effective programs with administrative efficiencies.

With his extensive knowledge on the Affordable Care Act, Cureo provides employers with guidance and tools required to remain compliant. He has appeared at numerous speaking engagements on the critical aspects of health care reform designed to keep employers well-versed on regulatory issues and benefit trends.

“We are extremely excited to have John as an Associate Partner.” says Chuck Allesi, Partner, Lawley Benefits Group. “His knowledge and commitment to client service has contributed greatly to our growth.”

“I’ve very excited to become an Associate Partner for one of the largest and fastest growing benefit consultants in the state. Healthcare is a significant interest for our clients and we will continue to stay up to date and proactive to best service our clients.” said Cureo.
